First Commercial Sales of Itaconix® CHT™

Revolymmer (AIM: REVO) is pleased to announce that the first commercial sale of Itaconix® CHT™ ("CHT") has been made by the recently acquired business of Itaconix Corporation ("Itaconix"), for use in a private label automatic dish wash ("ADW") detergent marketed by a large US retailer.

Itaconix has already established use for its itaconic acid polymers in leading, private label European and North American detergent brands for water conditioning to replace phosphates. With new regulations scheduled to take effect in 2017 limiting phosphate use in European ADW detergents, the new CHT polymer represents a significant technological advance, achieving low-cost performance without phosphates in terms of reduced spotting and filming.

Revolymmer sees the commercial potential for CHT as significant in the medium term, making first commercial sale a meaningful milestone. Dr Kevin Matthews, Revolymmer CEO, commented: "We are pleased that the Itaconix business has started to deliver on the potential we saw that underpinned the recent acquisition. Whilst limited in quantum, the first commercial sale is an important step forward and we look forward to further developments in due course".
