Revolymer signs a supply and distribution agreement for its nicotine gum with Amma Polska

Revolymer plc ("Revolymer"), the British polymer technology company, is delighted to announce that it has signed a supply and distribution agreement for its nicotine gum products with Amma Polska ("Amma") for Poland, Hungary and the Czech and Slovak Republics. Under the terms of the agreement, Amma is responsible for marketing, sales and distribution within these countries.

"Now that we have bioequivalence data for our nicotine gums, we are beginning the European registration process and this agreement is an important part in our commercialisation programme. Amma has detailed knowledge of the customers and markets for nicotine replacement therapy gum and we look forward to working with them to commercialise our product" said Jonathan Swanston, VP Business Development of Revolymer.

"We are very happy to have signed this agreement with Revolymer on nicotine chewing gums and are looking forward to launching the product in Poland and rolling it out to other CEE markets. There is significant commercial potential for smoking cessation aids in these countries, in line with increasing health awareness, and changes in fashion and culture. With Revolymer's superior product we believe we have a quality offering to our customers and look forward to achieving market penetration." said Adam Zarnowski, owner and founder of Amma.
